SSD Teacher of the Year Inspires Student Success

To see the positive impact Denise Inman has in the classroom, look no further than the students that surround her each day.

Inman, who teaches at Hazelwood West High School, is SSD's 2013 Teacher of the Year. She earned the honor for her dedication to students and her innovative efforts to help them achieve their full potential.

Karyn Jones, a senior at Hazelwood West, nominated Inman for the award. She credits Inman with helping her develop as a leader among her peers and realize that she wants to become a teacher herself.

"Mrs. Inman has been my case manager for the last three years and in those three years, she has taught me more about myself than I even realized was there," Karyn wrote. "Through all of this she helped me see what it means to be a good teacher. A good teacher is someone who sees what a student cannot see in themselves, and knows how to bring out great qualities in their students."

Inman has taught with SSD for 11 years, and has served for six years as special education department chair at Hazelwood West. She is the sponsor for Hazelwood West's chapter of the Future Educators Association, coordinates a co-op work experience program for students with special needs, and helps lead the Project Walk dropout prevention program.

"Basically it's relationship building and respecting kids," Inman said in describing her philosophy on teaching. "They try, they do what they need to do, and I will always have their back."

Inman was selected as one of SSD's 10 Key to the Classroom Award winners who were among the 45 individuals and organizations honored on March 6 at the annual SSD Salutes banquet. The event recognizes teachers, paraprofessionals, other SSD staff and community members that have gone above and beyond in serving the district and its students.

Inman will represent SSD next year in the statewide competition for Missouri Teacher of the Year, a program sponsored by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. ■

EVENT OFFERS FAMILIES ONE-STOP ACCESS TO AUTISM RESOURCES

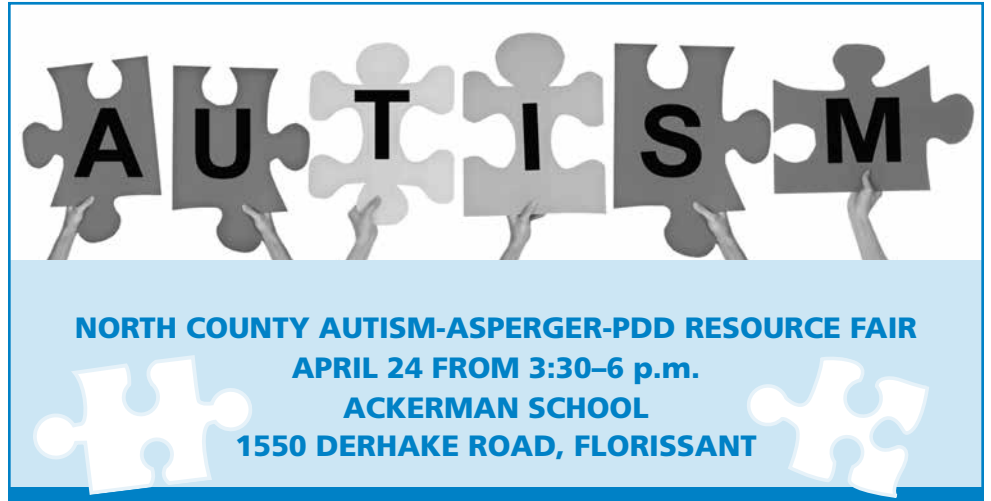

April is Autism Awareness Month, and SSD's Parent Education and Diversity Awareness Program is launching a new event to help parents and community members learn more about autism.

The North County Autism-Asperger-PDD Resource Fair is scheduled for April 24 at SSD's Ackerman School in Florissant. The event, which will be held annually in the spring, seeks to expand on the success of the autism resource fair held each fall at SSD's Central Office in Town & Country.

The fair will feature information about programs and resources from SSD and other community agencies, including the Department of Mental Health St. Louis Regional Office, Missouri Families for Effective Autism Treatment (MOFEAT), TouchPoint Autism Services/Life Skills, Missouri Parents Act (MPACT), the Recreation Council of Greater St. Louis and St. Louis ARC.

Participants will have the chance to learn more about topics such as respite care, recreation opportunities, community summer programs, behavior support and planning for the future.

The event is free and open to the public. Registration is not required to attend. For more information, call 314.989.8108 (711 Deaf/HOH). ■

COMING UP @ SSD

The Art of Effective Advocacy May 6, 6-9 p.m.

SSD Central Office, Room 61

If you are a parent of or work with a child with a disability, this training is for you. Learn the importance of keeping and organizing your child's records, as well as what information needs to be in your child's file. Participants will also learn about how to communicate more effectively with their child's school district and the importance of working collaboratively to solve problems.

Orientation for Parents to Special Education and the IEP Process

May 30, 7-9 p.m.

SSD Central Office, Room 57

Is special education sounding like alphabet soup? OTs, PTs, IEPs? This orientation will provide parents with an overview of special education services and how they are provided through SSD. Participants will receive a parent handbook, including the "IEP Guide for Parents," and take a tour of SSD's Family & Community Resource Center.

For more information about these events or to register, visit www.ssdmo.org/cool_tools/workshops.html or call 314.989.7807 or 711 (Deaf/HOH).

Are You Ready for Summer?

SSD's Family and Community Resource Center publishes a resource guide about summer educational and recreational opportunities. To receive a copy of the 2013 "Tutoring and Summer Recreation" packet, contact Rachel Myers at 314.989.8431 or via email
