South Tech Hosts Day of Beauty for Southview Prom Students

Thanks to Cosmetology students at SSD’s South Technical High School, students at SSD’s Southview School got their hair styled, their nails manicured, and their makeup applied for prom night.

“I am so excited,” said Southview student Sarah Sharp as she consulted with her stylist on the day of the event. “I am wearing a pink dress to prom. I like getting my hair done. The best part of today is going to be dancing at prom.”

The day of beauty was a treat for all of those involved. The Cosmetology students at South Tech take their state board exams as part of the class and gained valuable experience working with the Southview students.

“It’s all about making others feel good,” said Marquisha Terry, a student at South Tech and Kirkwood High School in the Kirkwood School District. “Today we are making them feel beautiful inside and out.”

Southview students were able to choose what services they wanted to receive. Hair styling, makeup and manicures were all available.

South Tech’s Cosmetology program allows students to learn in a full-service interactive salon and spa environment. They use their creativity to provide a wide range of hair, nail and skincare services. And they get to work with a professional cosmetologist while developing their own point of view.

“This is such a great experience for the South Tech students to work with kids from Southview,” said South Tech teacher Jean Werner. “They come away from this day appreciating the opportunities that they have.”

To help the Southview students prepare for their day of beauty, their teachers and paraprofessionals helped them search the Internet for hairstyles. And then they brought pictures with them to their stylists.

Kilia Summers, a student at South Tech and Maplewood-Richmond Heights High School, summed it up by saying that it was exciting to help the students feel extra special for their prom.

“We were happy to help them prepare for prom and hope they had a lot of fun,” said Summers.

SAVE MONEY
SSD, the Special Education Foundation, the Bonhomme Lions and a variety of other organizations offer scholarships to SSD students. Applications can be found on the SSD website beginning in September at www.ssdmo.org. Application deadlines are in February.

SAVE TIME
Need to get in touch with SSD staff? Quickly access staff by first name, last name, title or location in the searchable staff directory located at the top of the SSD website at www.ssdmo.org. Find phone numbers and e-mail addresses for staff at all levels within the organization. Or if you want to get a list of SSD contacts at a particular school or partner district, visit www.ssdmo.org/ssd_services/schools.html and click on the school or district. Lastly, contact information for SSD leadership groups like administration, Board of Education, Parent Advisory Council and Governing Council can be found under the “Leadership” tab at www.ssdmo.org.

SAVE YOUR QUESTIONS FOR THE EXPERTS
SSD’s Parent Education and Diversity Awareness Program offers families a variety of opportunities to learn more about special education and disabilities through educational workshops, District resources, referrals, resource fairs and other special events.

A variety of free workshops are offered on topics ranging from basic sign language and teaching kids social skills to college preparation and understanding the IEP process. For more information about these events or to register, visit www.ssdmo.org/cool_tools/workshops.html

The Family & Community Resource Center (FCRC) provides a vast array of special education and disability-related tools and resources for SSD families and the community at large. The FCRC’s collection includes thousands of books, journals, videos, resource packets and more. For details, visit www.ssdmo.org/cool_tools/fcrc.html. Materials may be sent home through school mail to families whose children receive SSD services or people may visit the center to check out materials.

Neuwoehner High School

EARNNS NATIONAL SCHOOL OF CHARACTER HONOR

The Character Education Partnership has named SSD’s Neuwoehner High School as a 2014 National School of Character.

Neuwoehner is one of 41 schools and three school districts being recognized nationwide in 2014. It is the only one of 10 schools and two school districts honored this year in the St. Louis metropolitan region that serves an entirely special education population.

Each year, CEP selects schools and districts that demonstrate through a rigorous evaluation process that their focus on character development has had a positive impact on academic achievement, student behavior, and school climate. Selected schools will serve as models for other schools, helping them to achieve the same results.

Service projects, guest speakers, monthly focus on individual character traits and bullying prevention activities are all key elements of Neuwoehner’s character education efforts.

Earlier this year, Neuwoehner was among eight schools and two school districts from the St. Louis metropolitan region to earn distinction as a 2014 Missouri School of Character before advancing to the national level for review.

Neuwoehner is the second SSD school to recently receive recognition as a National School of Character. Northview High School earned the honor in 2012.

CEP will honor the 2014 National Schools of Character at the National Forum on Character Education, to be held the weekend of Oct. 30, 2014, in Washington, D.C. For more information about CEP and the National Schools of Character program, visit www.character.org.
Voters showed their support for SSD and its students by voting yes on Proposition S in 2012. To follow the progress of the repairs, updates and renovation projects made possible with the tax increase, visit the new Prop S Progress section on our website: www.ssdmo.org/Prop_S/Prop_S.html

With the 19-cent tax increase, SSD is able to continue providing students with quality special education services and cutting-edge career and technical education. In the coming issues of Special Edition, we will feature some of the projects taking place at our schools. Thank you for your investment in our students.
